

IT IS SALT LAKE OR CINCINNATI

Brewers' Convention for One.

Next Annual Gathering May Be Held in This City.

Strong Efforts Are Being Made to Have Salt Lake City Selected.

Salt Lake City, it is believed, has an even chance of securing the next annual convention of the United States Brewers' association, to be held some time in June, 1935. The choice of the meeting place for the next convention lies between Cincinnati and Salt Lake City, with the chances rather in favor of this city, it would seem, owing to the fact that the organization has never held a convention in the West, and that to do so would give it added strength from the Rocky mountain and Pacific coast districts. The matter of deciding upon the place of holding the meeting has been left entirely to the board of trustees of the association, which comprises twenty-eight of the prominent brewers of the United States.

Has Good Chance.

The chance which this city has of securing the convention is due to the efforts of the local brewers, headed by Jacob Moritz of the Salt Lake City Brewing company, who, while they were unable to attend the convention in June this year in St. Louis, united in addressing to the convention, through its president, a communication which set forth in such strong terms the claims of this city as a meeting place for the association that it at once attracted the attention of the members to the extent that a motion was put at once that the invitation of the Salt Lake City brewers be accepted. Cincinnati, however, had partisans in attendance with sufficient influence to prevent the carrying of the motion at the time, with the result that the whole matter was referred to the board of trustees, who will decide upon the next meeting place in time for ample notice to be given for the convention.

Commercial Club Aids.

Before sending their communication to the National association the local brewers laid the matter before the board of governors of the Commercial club, who gave the invitation their hearty endorsement, supplementing it with an equally strong letter urging the association to come here, and promising that the club would do its full duty in looking after the entertainment of the delegates.

Text of Letter.

The letter from the Salt Lake City brewers to the president of the association was as follows: "SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, April 9, 1934.—Mr. Joseph Thuermer, President United States Brewers' Association: Dear Sir:—We are in receipt of a circular from the secretary of the Brewers' association informing us that the next annual convention of the Brewers' association will be held in St. Louis on the 8th and 9th of June next.

"We regret very much our inability to participate in one of your conventions, owing to the fact that our breweries are not of sufficient capacity to enable us to have assistant business managers and a care, therefore, spare sufficient time at that season of the year to attend the convention when held at such a great distance. However, there are a great many in California, Oregon, Washington, Montana, Idaho and adjoining States who would, we are sure, be glad to attend if the convention were held in close proximity, like Salt Lake City, and we are sure it would be beneficial, not only to those in the West, but to those who would come here from the East. We also think it would increase your membership from these Western States considerably, as a great many brewers who have not joined the association as yet, because of their inability to travel so far, and who think that without being present at the convention they would get no benefit from belonging to the association, and as Salt Lake City is geographically so situated that it would afford each an opportunity to those who might desire to attend, it would seem that this city would be the right place to hold your convention once in a great while, and we think it would be nothing but just to give to those who live in the intermountain section, and on the Pacific coast, and who have so faithfully contributed for years past toward the maintenance of the United States Brewers' association.

"We are unable to send a lobby in St. Louis for the purpose of getting members of the association more clearly to understand that at this time they should stretch a point and give our smaller concerns in the West a chance to participate in the proceedings of the convention, which we would appreciate so highly that some time we would stretch a point and attend the convention further East.

"Now, Mr. President, officers and members of the United States Brewers' association, their friends and all those who generally attend the United States Brewers' convention, we think it is our duty to invite you to hold your convention in 1935 in the city of Salt Lake, in the State of Utah. We are satisfied that the Governor of our State, the Mayor and City Council of our city, our commercial club, which is composed of our best business men and, in fact, our whole community at large, will receive you with open arms should you decide to hold your convention in our lovely city. We have ample hotel accommodations and as good as can be found between San Francisco and Chicago. A great many members of the association who have traveled and been in Salt Lake will bear me out in this assertion. We cannot promise you the 'abernacle of the Mormon church to meet in but you can promise you the next best place, Assembly hall, adjoining the Tabernacle and the Mormon Temple, in the Temple block. We have already had our conventions here and the Mormon people always kindly furnished the large hall free of charge, and this hall is well adapted for convention purposes. Only two years ago the 'Bible' convention met here in convention, and if there are any members of that order in your association who were present at the convention here they will also bear us out in this Salt Lake City. Our climate is second to none in the United States. Our climate at that time of the year is far superior to any in the East; the cool mountain breezes are invigorating; we have the finest bathing facilities, the like of which there is none other in the world, and our hot sulphur springs, with fine bathing facilities, right in the city. Besides that we have in the mountains surrounding us the greatest mines of gold, silver, lead and copper, which alone would repay you for coming to our city, and these mines can be reached within two hours' travel by rail. We have the great Silver King, with millions blocked out; the great Daily West, the Centennial Eureka and the great Ontario mines, all of which have paid millions in dividends, and other mines too numerous to mention. We promise you we will get up a free excursion to these mining camps, and take you all out to see where the wealth of the United States comes from.

"Now, Mr. President, as you are personally acquainted with one of the writers (Mr. Moritz), we have taken the liberty of writing you this letter, and which we have no doubt you will give your personal consideration. We are also satisfied that the young men who are now officers in charge of the United States Brewers' association will do everything in their power that will be beneficial and to the interest of the Brewers' association. Hoping that you will be able to see the matter in the same light as we do, we remain, yours respectfully,

The letter is signed: The Salt Lake City Brewing Co., by Jacob Moritz, vice-president, treasurer and general manager; A. Fisher Brewing Co., by Albert Fisher, owner; Wagner Brewing Co., by W. P. Wagner, vice-president, treasurer and general manager.

Salt Lake Well Advertised.

The communication was spread upon the minutes of the association and printed conspicuously in the published report of the convention, which goes into the hands of every brewer in the country, so that Salt Lake City must be advertised in a very good advertisement, due to the enterprise of the local brewers.

The United States Brewers' association is noted as representing in its membership more millions of capital than any other similar organization in the country, if not in the world. Many of its members are millionaires and are progressive business men and capitalists, whose visit to this city in body could not but be of great advantage to the city and the West. From 500 to 600 delegates attend the annual convention, which usually covers about three days, and the occasion would be an exceptionally advantageous one for an exceptionally large quantity of Utah products which would give to Eastern men of wealth an idea of the State's wonderful resources.

Jacob Moritz will go East in November, when he expects to be able to do some good work in Salt Lake's interest in the matter of securing a decision in her favor.

WONDERS OF THE ZOO.

Ringling Brothers' Menagerie Replete With Rare, Wild Animals.

Jungle beasts are getting scarcer and scarcer and the prices placed upon the rarest are enormous. Such animals as the giraffe and rhinoceros are almost impossible to get, and are rated from $10,000 to $15,000 in the animal markets of the world. The only rhinoceros in this country is owned by Ringling Brothers, and is on exhibition in their remarkable menagerie. This firm is also the fortunate owners of two giraffes, which are cared for like royalty, and could not be bought at any price. For the care of these precious beasts traveling cars and wagons are especially built, and their living rooms are thickly padded with curled hair, backed by rich and serviceable fabric. They are nervous and timid creatures and must be watched every minute by a trained keeper, who alone is allowed to feed them. Their food is prepared and steamed according to scientific rules, and includes apples, oranges, carrots, and other palatable and juicy fruits and vegetables. So far as is known, the giraffe never touches water. Cod liver oil and milk are a part of their diet. At certain seasons of the year special herbs and grasses, freshly gathered, are fed in small quantities. Another peculiarity of this rare animal is that it never utters a vocal sound. Another generation will probably know of the giraffe through natural history and the skeleton relics mounted in halls of science.

PRIDE OF PROVO STILL IN THE LEAD

Hardy Downings, However, Clips Down Samuelson's Gains Somewhat.

"The Pride of Provo" still leads in the professional column, but Hardy Downings clipped down his usual weekly gain in the percentage column by his brilliant side victory last Friday night. Downings has been improving all along and his victory is due to hard, conscientious training. Next Friday night Downings will ride Iver Redman a five-mile match race for a purse of $500 and a side bet of $50, to decide whether the horse of having the fastest pace follows at the track belongs to the professionals or the amateurs. The race is the outcome of a bet made by the amateurs that Redman is the cleverest pace follower of the track.

Emil Agass, the clever Californian amateur, who has hitherto led in the amateur ranks, turned professional at Friday's meet and got in on the money in his first tryout. Carl Redman now leads in the amateur column, former won out of his own his own race.

WEEK'S RESUME OF SALT LAKE BUSINESS

Tone Better and Volume Larger Than at the Same Time Last Year.

While business of all kinds felt last week the effect of the continued warm weather, it was in all lines unusually strong for the midsummer season, the tone being better and the volume larger than for the corresponding week of last year. The local money market shows a fair demand, with plenty of funds for first-class security, conditions showing plainly the effects of good crops throughout the State, the continued heavy output of the mines, the railroad building and the prospect of new industries. A few of the stock market advanced slightly in price, while others held steady. The Idaho Sugar company paid its 15th cent quarterly dividend on August 1. Following are the latest quotations:
